The School of the Air

Australia is a big country but there are only 20 million people in the country. Some families live on big, isolated farms, hundreds of kilometres away from a city or town. Children from these families can't travel to school every day so many of them use a special school: the Australian School of the Air.

Twelve Schools of the Air in Australia have over 1000 students. Students of these schools study the same subjects as other Australian students, but they don't have lessons in classrooms with other students. They study at home on their own. The teachers at the School of the Air prepare lessons and send them to students by post or email. The students work on these lessons for five hours a day, Monday to Friday. They can also borrow books from the school library. The books arrive by post. They send their work to the teachers at the weekend and talk about it by radio or over the internet.

Once or twice a year, a teacher visits every student at home. The teacher spends a day with the student, helps them with their work and discusses problems. The teacher often has dinner with the family and stays for a night at the student's house. Teachers and students can also meet at the School of the Air Carnival. This takes place in August and only the teachers and the students can join this Carnival. It is a great way for students to do sport together and to make friends.
